
Acknowledgments

(On October 20, 1994, the Soil Conservation Service became the Natural Resources Conservation Service. Since that time, the agency has undergone a major restructuring and many of the authors and reviewers have changed jobs and locations. Their titles and work locations shown here reflect those they held when this handbook was originally published.)

The Agricultural Waste Management Field Handbook was prepared under the direction of James N. Krider, national environmental engineer, Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), Washington, DC, with invaluable day-to-day coordination provided by James D. Rickman, environmental engineer, NRCS, Fort Worth, TX. The authors and those who made major contributions to rewriting and reorganizing chapters are listed below.

- Preface and Chapter 1 James N. Krider, author; David J. Jones, environmental engineer, NRCS, Bozeman, MT; Donald Stettler, environmental engineer, NRCS, Portland, OR.
